

Scroll Of Flames

In the heart of the ancient glade, where the towering oaks whisper secrets of old, gather four spellcasters to hold the Crystal Tears and call upon the Blazing Spire.

As the twilight descends upon your sacred circle, raise your arms to the upper realms and chant —

We call upon the Fire, we summon forth the Light.

With Crystal Tears, our destinies align,

Arise, O'Blazing Spire, let your radiance shine.

With the Key of Molten Gold, let the Arcane align. The in the runic circle, produce the Quartz Chalice, wherein the souls of half a thousand parted shall be poured. With the chalice aglow, channel the Dark Fire towards the sky. Allow the power to pull back the Lord to the crown on his throne, & bow to the Monument of True Power —

O'Spirits of flame, O'guardians of the night

Five hundred souls, lost in the fray,

In this sacred vessel, we bind their stay.

Make their essence flow, like rivers of Fire,

To awaken the Lord, our hearts' desire.

O'Kossuth, Lord of Flames, we beseech Thy grace,

Descend to your throne, our realms to embrace.

With Fire and Fury, answer our call,

For in your Radiance, we wish to enthrall.
